The condominiums that McNeil and Associates of Westwood would like to build in Shawsheen Village are "not satisfactory" to the Planning Board, the board indicated Tuesday night, because they are not the condominiums that town meeting voted to accept last spring.

Faced with a proposed 27-unit condo development that differs in size, layout and architectural style from the one they supported at town meeting, the planners said they would not recommend approval of those plans to the Zoning Board of Appeals.

The zoning board is scheduled to continue a public hearing on plans for the 12.5-acre Poor Street site next Thursday night, Dec. 6. McNeil and Associates need a special permit from the ZBA to build in an apartment zone.

The zoning board will rely heavily on the planning board's comments on the site plan, Nancy Jeton of the Community Development and Planning department said Tuesday night.

Although no vote was taken this week, the consensus of the planners was clear, Jeton said: "This plan is not satisfactory to the planning board."

Chairman Margaret Bradshaw said she "assumed" McNeil would return before her board in January, or possibly late December, with revised plans.

She indicated that the board expects to see a proposal that conforms more closely to the one town meeting saw last April, when it voted to rezone the Poor Street site from Single Residence A to Apartment zoning (Article 50).

James Barenboim of Andover owns the Poor Street site, which is located in Shawsheen Village, next to Hussey's Pond and across from Windsor Street. Barenboim presented town meeting with plans for a 29-unit "luxury" condo development; those plans were drawn by George Matarazzo of Concord, N.H.

McNeil and Associates hope to buy the site from Barenboim and develop the condominium complex, Brookfield Condominiums, with new plans drawn by the Boston architectural firm of Royal Barry Wills.

The sale is contingent on zoning board approval of McNeil's plans; a ZBA public hearing on the developer's request for a special permit to build the condominiums began on Nov. 1 and was continued to Dec. 6.

Thomas Southworth of McNeil and Associates told the planners Tuesday night that current plans call for a total of 27 condominium units, clustered in six buildings.

Most of the units in the "first-rate, well-designed and well-planned" development would be single-family homes styled like Capes, some with gambrel roofs, and Federalist houses. The housing design would "reflect Shawsheen Village, and the community at large," Southworth said.

Engineer James Haley, representing McNeil, added that the one-story, brick and clapboarded units would be "low-key," and would "fit into the wooded nature of the neighborhood."

But after reviewing McNeil's plans Tuesday afternoon, Jeton said, the community development and planning staff concluded that the current proposal would adversely effect "the amenity of the neighborhood" — and that is the "most crucial" aspect of the zoning by-law on granting special permits, she maintained (Section VIII.C.2.c.).

According to Jeton, the "major problem" with the new plan is that one building sited in the northwest corner of the parcel would be located as close as 30 feet, and 45 feet at its furthest point, from the property line.

The Matarazzo plan had called for that building to be set 80 feet from the property line, she explained, leaving a grove of trees as a buffer between the condos and neighboring houses. In addition, the McNeil building would be 160 feet longer than the Matarazzo building.

McNeil's proposed buildings are larger than Matarazzo's, she noted: they range from 1,800 to 2,200 square feet, contrasted to the 1,500 to 2,000 square feet indicated in the Matarazzo plan.

The designs have also been changed to move garages from in front of each unit, as in the original plans, to the side, which gives each unit a larger "footprint" on the site, Jeton added.

Planner Andrew Girdwood said the board had recommended approval of Barenboim's rezoning article to town meeting based on Matarazzo's plans, "and that's what I think town meeting voted on." Russ Moran agreed, adding

Water Taste To Improve Shortly

The musty taste and smell of the town's water should be gone in about two weeks, said Robert McQuade, the town's Department of Public Works director.

Early this month McQuade said an increase in algae production had created the odor and taste which he told THE TOWNSMAN this week are difficult to remove.

McQuade, emphasizing the water is safe to drink, said town workers had tried to remove the taste and odor by adding a carbon "slurry," made of carbon powder mixed with water, to the water supply. The carbon settles out of the water in the settling process, he said, but this algae has resisted the carbon treatment, said McQuade.

"Algae is an indication that we have a healthy pond," said McQuade of Haggetts Pond, the town's source of drinking water. "And the water going out now doesn't have the odor and taste. It may take a few weeks to get through the system. Everywhere I go now I don't taste it (the bad taste) in the system."

Private biologists are studying the water, said McQuade, and will take samples through the winter and all next year, he said.

All-Night Parking Ban To Begin December 1

The town's wintertime all-night parking ban will go into effect Thursday, Dec. 1, and continue through April 1.

Under the parking ban, on-street parking for more than one hour will be prohibited between 1 a.m. and 6 a.m. all winter—and the ban will be strictly enforced by the Police Department.

The parking prohibition is designed to leave a clear path for snow removal crews cleaning up during and after winter storms.

Forum On Consumer Issues

Andover's elder citizens may learn about health and life insurance, medications and banking laws from state officials at a morning conference of consumer issues set for this Wednesday, Dec. 5, from 9 to 11 a.m., at the Senior Citizen's Center, off Whittier Street.

Sponsored by Sen. Patricia McGovern, (D-Second Essex and Middlesex) who represents Andover's precincts one through five, and the state Executive Office of Consumer Affairs, the forum will feature three state employees who will discuss their work.

Jacques Leroy, who is the assistant secretary for Consumer Affairs and Business Regulation, will discuss the work of his department and explain how to file a consumer complaint.

Director of Consumer Services in the state Division of Insurance, Barbara Masters will talk to elders about life and health insurance plans, generic drugs and hearing aids and health costs.

She will be followed by Georgeann Abbanat, of the state Division of Banking, who will talk about the state's new banking law that does not allow extra charges for persons younger than 18 or older than 65.

The morning session will end with refreshments and questions of each of the panelists at 11 a.m.

Supper

Winter Hike Sunday

Winter is definitely not a time to stay indoors. Ask any Appalachian Mountain Club member, especially the Andover Committee, who invite everyone to find out why by joining its frequent hikes through the natural beauty of local conservation lands. This Sunday, Dec. 2, a scenic walk will traverse two and a half miles of Shawsheen River banks, winding through one of the areas rescued from industrial pollution by much cooperative public effort and now under the supervision of AVIS (Andover's Village Improvement Society).

Participants in this tour will learn more about the element most vital to the founding of Andover, the river. They will see that one of the town's first industries was fishing, as recorded in 1681 when the town fathers granted permission to Capt. Bradstreet and Lt. Osgood for the building of a fish weir.

Hike leader Lomer Pothier will offer information along the way, guiding hikers to note the wooden bridges and historic sites such as the Benjamin Abbott house (1685). But, standing silently behind the touch with history and with interesting local facts is the enduring winter landscape.

Meet at the Ballardvale railroad station at 1:30 p.m.

Addresses Group On China

The Women's Evening Circle of West Parish Church, Andover, enjoyed a slide show on China, presented by Debee Westaway, B.S.N., at its November meeting. Westaway, employed by Women's and Infants' Hospital, Providence, participated in a professional nursing tour of China which included visitations to medical facilities and health workshops.

Women's Evening Circle evolved from one of the earliest groups founded at West Parish Church, The Ladies' Benevolent Sewing Circle. Through 120 years of mergers with other women's groups and name changes, the group finally changed its name to Women's Evening Circle in 1954, enabling business women and mothers of young families to attend the meetings on the second Thursday evening of each month. Each year this social and benevolent organization provides a luncheon for the Carvel Chapter for the Blind, sponsors a child through the Christian Children's Fund, contributes to other groups as voted by its members and provides some of the traditional events of West Parish, i.e., the Fall Craft Fair, Mother-Daughter Banquet and the May Breakfast. New members are always welcome and can obtain more information from Phyllis Klockow, president; Joan Patrakis, vice president; Ruth McQuade, secretary; and Barbara Nolin, treasurer.

The Boston Chapter of the Ex-Students' Association of the University of Texas at Austin awards scholarships to an entering freshman or transfer student. This year, a $500 scholarship was awarded to Ingrid DuMosch of Andover, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Richard DuMosch. She is majoring in Spanish. A special meeting for boys and girls, ages 12-14 and 15-17, from Andover and their parents and friends has been scheduled for Sunday, Dec. 9, from 2 p.m. to 3 p.m. at Wellesley College, Pendleton 105 East. The purpose of this meeting is to acquaint individuals from Andover and others with the two separate Exploration Summer Programs to be held on the Wellesley College campus again this summer.

The two programs will operate independently. The senior program is for students entering grades 10-12 and the intermediate program is for students entering grades 7-9.

Last summer more than 950 participants attended Exploration's residential and day programs. Approximately one third of the participants came from Greater Boston with more than 50 different communities represented. In addition, students came from more than 35 states and 10 foreign countries including France, Italy, Germany. Many Greater Boston participants and non-local students chose the residential and lived in dormitories at Wellesley College; others chose the day program.

Exploration is entering its ninth season. It is hoped that students from Andover will take advantage of the opportunities made available at exploration Senior and Exploration Intermediate this July and August.

According to Ann Singal, executive director of the non-profit program, "Exploration is neither a summer school nor a camp. Some of the senior program participants come to explore future career fields or deepen interests in academic and enrichment areas. Some of the intermediate program participants will seek to broaden their ideas scholastically and socially. Most come to meet new people and form additional friendships and this is made easier through the flavor of the college campus."

At the senior program, each participant attends two workshops of his or her choice. These are selected from a wide range of fields including law, architecture, film, drama, art, dance, psychology, mathematics, physics, philosophy, computers and many others. Among the more than 65 workshops offered, there is also SAT (Scholastic Aptitude Test) preparation. Recreational schedules include mini-courses, field trips, guest lectures and sports such as tennis, softball or soccer. There is swimming and boating on Lake Waban, located on the campus.

Each participant in the intermediate program attends two workshops of his or her choice, planned in most cases to be "hands on" or participatory type workshops.

Students may enroll as a commuting or residential participant for either or both of Exploration's three-week sessions. Admission is largely a self-selection process dependent on space available in a workshop. Exploration attracts participants with a wide span of abilities ranging from average to advanced. Anyone with a keen interest in learning about a field of knowledge and participating in a program of this kind is encouraged to apply. For further information, call or write Exploration, 124 High Rock Lane, Westwood, MA 02090.

Membership Drive Set For Friends Of Library

John Smith and his contemporaries dedicated Andover's Memorial Hall Library in 1873 to those who served in the Civil War. But their vision of a memorial was rather more lively than one might suppose. From its opening, Memorial Hall Library was conceived to be a "new center of historic treasures and popular culture."

The great hall still serves as a meeting place and lecture hall and, of course, as a memorial. Yet the regional library which surrounds the hall now is in tune with today's world in ways the founders could not have envisioned.

A computerized catalog and a computer network offer access to more than 1,000,000 volumes plus thousands of records, cassettes, maps, newspapers and magazines through the Merrimack Valley Consortium of 11 neighboring towns. Even a portable computer and a video recorder are available for loan (at a nominal charge).

According to David Rodger, president, the Friends of Memorial Hall Library, for the 12 years since their founding, have been a source of special funds and volunteers to help the library staff. Activities such as lectures by noted authors, movies, storytelling and passes to many of Greater Boston's museums are all provided by the Friends of the Library.

Support will help continue to serve the needs of the library. Membership information may be obtained from Mrs. James K. Dow, membership chairman, or at the main desk of the library.

Poster Child Competition Underway

The Quota Club of Greater Lawrence, a member of the Council for Better Hearing and Speech Month, joins with the council in announcing the opening of its sixth annual Poster Child competition.

The 1985 Poster Child, along with a celebrity chairman, will serve as a spokesperson for the council and the more than 22 million Americans with communication handicaps which it represents, during Better Hearing and Speech Month in May 1985.

"Winner of the poster child contest," said Dr. Kathleen M. Griffin, chair of the council's steering committee, "will be featured in television, radio and magazine public service announcements and will come to the nation's capitol to launch the campaign." While in Washington, the child and his or her parents will visit the White House and the Capitol, participate in the May 1 campaign kickoff and make other special public appearances on radio and television talk shows.

Poster child nominees must be at least three years old, but no older than six, as of May 1, 1985, and have a significant speech, language and/or hearing problem. Contestants may be sponsored by parents, friends, teachers, professionals in speech or hearing or organizations.

Entries should consist of the child's name, address and the parents' telephone number, at least two different, good-quality black and white photographs (preferably 8" x 10" glossies), a professional estimate of the degree of speech or hearing impairment, a current audiogram and a signed photo release.

Entries should be mailed to Poster Child Contest, Council for Better Hearing and Speech Month, 10801 Rockville Pike, Rockville, MD 20852. Entries must be received no later than Friday, Dec. 7.

Information may be obtained locally through Jacquelyn Cyr or Terry Kenney.

Some people believe that wearing quartz stones would help them secure public favor.

The first human canonball act was performed in London back in 1877 by Zazel, billed as "the beautiful lady fired from a monstrous cannon." She did her act every day for two years without mishap and earned about $600 a week.

Extended Day Care Program Removing Chaos For Parents

By Sue Aucella Deacon

Finding good day care for a pre-schooler is challenging enough. But even parents who've found ideal day care may see their careful planning undone when their children enter kindergarten.

Andover youngsters attend kindergarten for two and one-half hours each day, and at mid-year those in the morning and afternoon sessions switch places. That schedule could throw any working parent's daily routine into chaos.

"Parents are almost at a loss about what to do," Department of Community Services (DCS) Director Joan Pearson says. "It's an extremely difficult year, especially since it's the child's first year of real school. That in itself is a difficult enough situation for both the parents and the child."

To help untangle that situation, Community Services — working closely with the school department — has inaugurated a new day care program to serve the children of parents who work outside the home all day.

The Shawsheen Extended Day program (informally known as SHED) offers children day care before and after they attend kindergarten or readiness classes at the Shawsheen Early Childhood Education Center; SHED operates from 7:15 a.m. to 5:45 p.m.

For children, SHED means "continuity" throughout their day, Joan says: They don't have to be shuttled back and forth from day care to kindergarten and back to day care. For parents, it offers convenience and, more importantly, the assurance that their children will spend the day in one school building — not riding all over town.

Parents and children alike have been pleased with the program since it began in September, the director says.

"The children seem to be very happy — parents tell us that their children come home and talk about their day. And parents find that it's just what they need. They couldn't be more appreciative of having this program."

SHED currently occupies two rooms in the basement of the Shawsheen School. One is filled with the cheery clutter of toys and games and books, tiny desks and tables and chairs. Student artwork decorates the walls. The second room, reserved for "large motor activities" (known in the adult world as exercise), is lined with colorful exercise mats; a crepe-paper parrot hangs from the ceiling, presiding over the room.

There are nearly 50 five- and six-year-old children enrolled in the program, Joan says, with about half in the morning session and half in the afternoon session.

The morning group stays in the day care program while their classmates are upstairs in kindergarten. After they all share a lunch hour, the afternoon group returns to day care while the morning group goes up to kindergarten. They regroup in the late afternoon to spend the rest of the day together.

(Not every child remains in the program from early morning to early evening: some leave for home after their kindergarten session ends.)

SHED Coordinator Laura Tenero, a part-time Community Services employee, oversees the day care staff and, along with the SHED teachers, plans the curriculum. According to Laura, the day care program is designed to complement — but not duplicate — the kindergarten curriculum.

"We try to keep some consistency" by following up on themes being developed in the kindergarten classroom, she explains, "but we try not to overdo it. We like to keep it a little bit different."

The day care program differs dramatically from kindergarten in that it can be "much more flexible," the coordinator adds. "There's a lot more free play. We don't have to adhere to a strict curriculum and teach certain skills."

"We supply the opportunity to use the skills the children are learning in kindergarten and to reinforce them, but we're not teaching them in a formal way." Thus if a child would rather work by himself on a painting, rather than model clay with the rest of the group, the SHED teachers let him paint.

Besides free play, children enrolled in the SHED program participate in group discussions about what they've been doing in kindergarten, arts and crafts sessions, singing, story-telling and weekly plays, and "specialty" activities that vary from day to day: cooking, wood-working, movement to music.

Each day also includes outdoor play on the playground, nap time, snack time, and lunch time (with lunches brought from home).

The classrooms are designed to provide a "warm, comfortable, developmental environment," Mrs. Pearson explains, with areas where children can play alone or in small groups, quietly or boisterously.

"The (main) classroom is bright and cheery," Laura notes. "And it has what one parent called a gentle touch to it."

Mrs. Pearson supervises the program, assisted by Mrs. Tenero and working in cooperation with Linnea Gershenberg, who is early childhood coordinator for the school department.

The program is staffed by two head teachers, Kate Normandy and Karen Sullivan; and two teaching assistants, Eileen Hadley and Anita Smullin. In addition, Andover High student Karen Sterling works as an aide during the afternoon hours.

SHED is a non-profit Community Services program, and not part of the school department. DCS is currently seeking a day care license for the program from the state's Office for Children, and after it has been licensed, SHED will be incorporated, Joan says.

"It will be a completely separate corporate entity, with its own board of directors, although it will still be under the auspices of the Department of Community Services."

The school department has granted the day care program the use of two rooms in the Shawsheen School because those rooms were available this year, she notes. If the school needs that classroom space in the future, SHED will have to look elsewhere for a home.

In exchange for the space, SHED will turn over $5,000 to $7,000 to the school department this year, the director says, and an estimated $7,000 to $10,000 next year, to help pay for custodians' services. Those funds will come from the tuition fees that families pay to use the day care program. (Financial assistance has been provided to several families that

To Discuss Beyond War Movement

Anthony Lee will explain the Beyond War Movement at St. Michael School Hall, 70 Maple Avenue, North Andover, on Sunday, Dec. 2, at 7 p.m. Lee is a professional person who has moved with his family from California to Massachusetts to work without salary on the beyond war effort.

His presentation, made with the assistance of high quality audio-visual materials, will communicate four basic points: that nuclear weapons have made all war obsolete; that we live on one planet with one interdependent, interrelated life support system; that the process of changing our modes of thinking begins with decision and that there is a plan of action to build a world beyond war.

The movement's first annual award, designed by Steuben Glass, "to honor the great efforts of humankind as it moves to build a world beyond war" was given in 1983 to the Catholic Bishops of the United States for their historic pastoral letter, "The Challenge of Peace: God's Promise and Our Response."

Two things are bad for the heart, running up stairs and running down people.

Montessori Thanksgiving Feast Held At School

Children from the Andover School of Montessori in North Andover held their annual Thanksgiving celebration Friday, Nov. 16. The children from one classroom were clad as Pilgrims in hats which they made themselves. They invited the Indians from the other classroom to a Thanksgiving feast of popcorn, jello and turkey-shaped cookies. The Indians were decorated with celebration paint and attired in headdress and macaroni necklaces which they made themselves. They provided entertainment with an Indian dance.

For two weeks prior to the celebration, the children learned much about native American culture, particularly of Indians who lived in this area. They learned about the types of Indians, their dress and type of homes (which were not tepees, but rather oblong wooden frame home with bark covering). They studied Indian sign language, chose Indian names, read Indian folktales and made tomtoms and learned how the Indians helped the Pilgrims make Thanksgiving possible.

Choir School Forming

Promising new beginning promotes constructive community spirit at the scene of last summer's destructive riots. The Greater Lawrence region will soon host an alternative multicultural institution for area youth. The new institution, Our Lady of the Holy Rosary Choir School, opening in September 1985, will offer a special group of youngsters an opportunity to contribute something the grown-ups seem unable to. The school will use music to illuminate a common language among the various ethnic groups with which all may identify and take pride. Nina and David Bergeron, the husband/wife team who will head the new choir school, point out that the songs of many nations performed by children will make a greater social impact than if the music were performed by adults. Somehow the voices of children penetrate the heart more quickly than that of adults, especially when the singing is done with care and style.

Participating students will represent the various ethnic groups of the area and receive full tuition scholarships. The new choir school will closely collaborate with Holy Rosary Elementary School already in existence, while remaining independent. Students will receive their academic education in Holy Rosary Elementary School, but will have daily music class while other non-choir school students are involved in educational activities. Students will be involved in the school at grade levels 5 through 8, but eighth grade graduates will be able to join the Men's Schola which will provide the tenor and bass voices in the choir which the school will form. The principal public performances will be for ecclesiastical functions, charitable benefits and concerts.

Two concerts have been slated to benefit the choir school scholarship fund. The programs at Holy Rosary Church, Essex and Union Streets, Lawrence, will be November 30, featuring Todd Wilson, an internationally acclaimed organist, at 8 p.m. and a Christmas concert by the Boston Archdiocesan Choir School, St. Paul Men's Schola and the BACS Handbell Choir on Sunday, Dec. 16, at 3:30 p.m.

Tickets may be purchased at the door or, for an advance discount, at Holy Rosary Rectory.

Health Hints

Strategies against stress: exercise at least four times a week and follow a nutritious diet. drink plenty of water every day. If you're experiencing any stress, you'll need two-thirds of an ounce of water for every pound of body weight and that's the usual amount needed, according to a stress management expert.

Withdraw from the burdens of daily life by taking a walk, nap, a stretch or "breathing" break. Avoid perfectionism: aim for the top, but make allowances. Talk about what's bothering you: unresolved issues take a heavy toll on both partners in a relationship.

Give yourself a change of pace by taking a vacation that will restore your energies. Under the proper circumstances, a long weekend can be as relaxing as a three-week vacation.

Kitchen Design

by David A. Clement, Designer

A growing number of women, who once had all day to spend in the kitchen, now work. This trend has stimulated kitchen designers. They have learned how the modern residential kitchen can be most efficiently organized with regards to the often decreasing periods of time available for preparing, cooking and cleaning up. The results of recent time-and-motion studies are significant. They show that planning a kitchen within certain dimensions can save 300 walking steps in preparing and serving breakfast, 500 steps in preparing and serving dinner, and 450 steps in cleaning up afterwards. A well-designed kitchen translates into less energy used and less time spent.

A well thought out kitchen takes your ideas and a professional kitchen designer. At WINDSOR KITCHENS we'll discuss the way you work in your kitchen, how you'd like to improve it and what conveniences you want. Then we'll create a kitchen that is specifically for you. We use quality materials and have an extensive design service available. This service provides assistance in floors, walls, ceilings, cabinets, counter tops and accessories. Come in to 1181 Boston Rd., Ward Hill to see proof of our outstanding work. Mon-Thurs. 9-5:30; Fri. 10-5; Sat. 11-2. Tel. 372-3444

Neubauer In Viola Recital

Paul Neubauer

"Paul Neubauer is musically assured and technically demanding. . .and offers a most pleasing program.

This was the New York Times description of Paul Neubauer's recital at Alice Tully Hall in November 1983.

Since then, Neubauer has become one of America's most exceptional young violists and is recognized on two continents. He has just been appointed first chair of New York Philharmonic.

Neubauer will appear at the J. Everett Collins Center for the Performing Arts, Andover, on Sunday, Dec. 2, at 7 p.m.

His program will include Franz Joseph Haydn's Divertimento in D Major, Invention for Viola and Tape by John Biggs, Johannes Brahms' Sonata in Eb Major, Opus 120 No. 2, Ernest Bloch's Suite Hebraique, Hopak by Modest Mussorgsky, Elegy, Opus 44 by Alexander Glazunov and Fritz Kreisler's La gitana.

He will be assisted by Margo Garrett, piano, and Wendy Young, harpsichord.

Born in Los Angeles, Neubauer began playing the viola at the age of seven. He made his debut at 13 with the Los Angeles Philharmonic under the baton of Sidney Harth. He was a student of the late William Primrose and studies with Alan de Veritch and Paul Doktor.

Neubauer will appear at the Collins Center as the second in a series of five classical programs. Also scheduled in the next few months are James Barbagallo, piano, Tchiakovsky Piano Competition award winner, Boston Chamber Music Society and the Portland String Quartet.

Tickets are available at the Collins Center Box Office daily from 11 a.m. to 5 p.m., the Andover and North Andover branches of Andover Bank and "Just For You," 36 Main St., Andover.

Contact the box office for group ticket information.

"Forbidden Broadway" Cast

"Forbidden Broadway," the critically acclaimed comedy review, will be at the J. Everett Collins Center for the Performing Arts, Shawsheen Road, Andover for one performance only on Saturday, Dec. 15, at 8 p.m.

Hailed as the "best thing to hit Boston since 'A Chorus Line,' 'Evita,' 'La Cage aux Folles,' 'Dreamgirls' and 'Fiddler'... a wicked delight!", "Forbidden Broadway" will be performed by the Boston cast.

Currently playing to sell-out audiences in Boston, "Forbidden Broadway" toasts and roasts Broadway's brightest stars, spoofing such luminaries as the legendary Carol Channing, the inimitable Ethel Merman, Yul Brynner, Mary Martin, Liza Minelli, Twiggy and Tommy Tune. Also are parodies of such Broadway hits as "Cats," "Evita," "Annie," "Dreamgirls" and "La Cage aux Folles."

Treble Chorus Presents Two Concerts

In honor of its tenth anniversary, The Treble Chorus of New England will present the American premiere of Vivaldi's "Gloria" in two concerts: Friday, Dec. 7, at 8 p.m. at the Reading Congregational Church and Sunday, Dec. 9, at 3:30 p.m. at St. Augustine's Church, Andover. Conducted by Artistic Director Marie Stultz, the semi-professional choir is composed of 65 musically-gifted children, ages 6-16, from ten communities north of Boston. The Treble Chorus has delighted music lovers with more than 75 concerts in the New England area, including recent performances at Hammond Castle, Phillips Academy, the American premiere of Paul Earls' contemporary opera "Icarus" at M.I.T. and a live concert on Robert J. Lurtsema's "Morning Pro Musica."

The Treble Chorus will open the concert season with the American premiere of Antonio Vivaldi's "Gloria" R.V. 588. This work, written for very youthful voices, uses the same fugue "Cum Sancto Spiritu" as the last movement of the popular "Gloria." The 28-year-old Venetian composer shows great promise in this work. Soloists will be Michelle Geoffrion of Reading and Laurie Oppelt of Tanglewood and Hart Summer Program. A professional men's section from Handel and Hayden and Boston Academy of Music will be included.

To celebrate the Christmas festival season, Stultz has chosen traditional carols with contemporary English arrangements by Willcocks, "Torches" from the Oxford Book of Carols, "A Child is Born in Bethlehem" by Scheidt, "Capriole Suite" of Warlock, "Joseph Dearest, Joseph Mine," "Hodie Christus Natus Est" of Monteverdi and the traditional "O Holy Night." Christmas music-lovers will be invited to join the Treble Chorus in a sing-along of favorite carols.

Tickets may be purchased from the Reading Creative Arts Program, a chorus member, Thompsons in Andover or at the door. A reception will follow to meet the artists.

Stultz is also music director of the Old North Church in Marblehead and has a degree in music from Southern Methodist University. She has composed widely for children and adults and is studying composition with John Heiss of the New England Conservatory.

These concerts are sponsored in part by a grant from the Massachusetts Council on the Arts and Humanities, a state agency.

Events At Museum

The Hancock Grand Baroque Bellringers will perform Christmas carols in the lobby area of the Museum of Our National Heritage, 33 Marrett Road, Lexington, Sunday, Dec. 16. This presentation is free.

Much Ado, a group

specializing in the music of the late Middle Ages and Renaissance Europe, will perform a concert of traditional holiday music from England and Germany in the museum's auditorium at 3:30 p.m. There is a small charge for the concert. General museum admission is free.

Readings

The Salem State College Writers' Series will present a reading of original fiction and poetry by students at the college December 5 in the A+B Lounge of the Campus Union at 7:30 p.m. A reception will follow the reading which is free and open to the public.

Collins Center in Andover," said Steve Dickerman, co-producer of the Boston production.

"We have heard many wonderful things about this new facility in Andover and our cast and crew look forward to performing there on December 15," he continued.

With concept, lyrics and direction by Gerard Alesandrini and musical direction by Fred Barton, the Boston production of "Forbidden Broadway" reunites the original artistic team from New York. The Boston stars appearing in Andover are Jeffrey Bannon, Toni Dibuno, Brad Ellis, Karen Murphy and Craig Wells.

"Forbidden Broadway" became an overnight hit upon opening in January 1982 at Palsson's Supper Club in New York where it is still playing to sold-out audiences. The success of the show prompted productions in Los Angeles, San Francisco, Toronto and the current Philadelphia production, now in its tenth month. Plans are underway for companies in Chicago, Miami and Washington, D.C.

Collins Center officials announced that priority seating will be offered to all Diamond, Emerald and Ruby subscribers of the 1984-85 season. To qualify for the priority seating, subscribers are asked to purchase their tickets at their special 10 percent discount by December 3.

Tickets are available at the Collins Center Box Office, Andover and North Andover branches of Andover Savings Bank and "Just for You," 36 Main St., Andover.

All Collins Center program advertisers are asked to call the center for a special discount bonus for all their employees.

Due to the expected surge of ticket sales, the Collins Center Box Office will be open Saturday, Dec. 1, from noon to 4 p.m. and Sunday, Dec. 2, from 5 p.m. to 7 p.m. Group discounts are available. Contact the box office for further information.

Holiday Bazaar

Meehan's work stresses the contrast between the fluidity of the sea against the stationary and architectural aspects of the coastline rocks.

The artist teaches art in the Lawrence school system. He has taught in Brooklyn, N.Y., and in Boston through the Mayor's Office of Cultural Affairs. Meehan studied at the New England School of Art, the School of the Boston Museum of Fine Art, the University of Massachusetts and the City College of New York.

Boston Tea Party

Who would have thought that the American War for Independence would begin with no less than a tea party? The Boston Tea Party, that is.

More than 20 million "cups" of tea were created that December 16, 1773, when a large band of men dressed as Red Indians dumped more than 340 chests of tea into Boston Harbor.

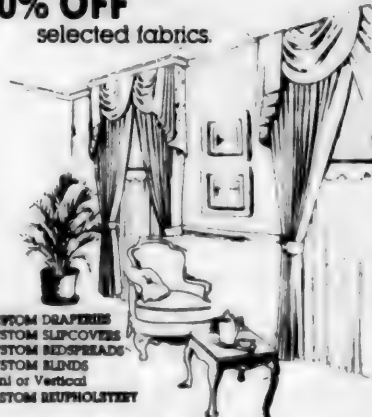

It was all done in reaction to the ruling iron hand of the British Parliament. First they taxed tea without the Patriots consent. Then, Parliament assigned sole tea export rights to the East India Company.

Even though the love of tea was widespread among the colonists, they agreed to band together and deny themselves their favorite beverage.

Musical Featured At November Club

The November Club will present a Musical on Monday, Dec. 3, at 1 p.m. Susan Quigley Duggan, song stylist, will bring back "Show Hits of the '70s on Broadway." Her repertoire will include hit songs from such popular shows as "Chicago," "Follies," "Ain't Misbehavin'," "Annie," "Chorus Line" and "A Little Night Music." The composers of these songs include Strauss, Sondheim, Hamlisch and Fats Waller.

Duggan received her Bachelor's degree from Hart College of Music, Hartford, and her Master's degree from Northern Illinois University. She has performed and directed opera and musical theatre in Maine and in the Boston area. Duggan was assistant director of the New England Conservatory opera department last year. Each song is carefully choreographed with movement to show the temperament of the tune. The last part of the program will be devoted to Christmas songs with member participation. Duggan will be accompanied by a classical pianist.

A social hour will be held from 1 p.m. to 1:30 p.m.

President Ann Vador will then conduct a short business meeting.

Christmas Benefit For Monastery

The annual pre-Christmas Egg Nog Party, the only public appeal of the year in behalf of the Poor Clare Nuns whose monastery is located in West Andover, will be held December 2 at the Speare House in Lowell, beginning at 4 p.m.

Every year the party attracts friends of the Poor Clares from the Greater Lowell and Lawrence areas who enjoy an evening of sociability and dancing to the music of Angie Bergamini. There will be square dancing in the afternoon.

Highlight of the evening will be the awarding of numerous door prizes and two color T.V. sets.

Joseph M. McDonough is the chairman of this traditional party, assisted by the officers of the Poor Clare Guild: Mrs. Bernard P. McArdle, president; Ann Casey, vice president; Mrs. Alan Smeltzer, secretary; Mrs. Raymond Cunningham, treasurer.

This event is open to the public.

Talk

Rob Moir, natural history curator at the Peabody Museum of Salem, East India Square, Salem, will discuss how animals live with the sea on Tuesday, Dec. 11, at 11 a.m. He will start in the Salt Marsh Gallery with the large horse-shoes necessary to keep horses from sinking into the marsh as they hayed the Essex County marshes. He will use a whale skeleton to explain how whales can live in the ocean.

He will compare birds that live on the edge of the sea with birds that live for up to three years without touching land.

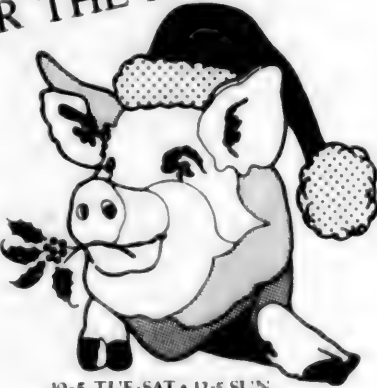

There is no charge above museum admission.

The first clock was built about 1360 and was off by about two hours each day.

Your Amazing Skin

Even if you're on the skinny side, your skin is your body's largest organ. The average human epidermis measures about 19 sq.ft. and weighs more than seven pounds. Your amazing skin is a fortress which protects you against invading bacteria and viruses. It can do this because the outer layer is really made up of dead cells which don't become infected easily.

Below the top cells, which you slough off and replace by the millions each day, lie highly-specialized cells which produce a substance called melanin. If you're a pale face, it's because you have less melanin, or pigment, in your skin than someone with a swarthier complexion.

A portion of skin no bigger than a postage stamp contains four yards of nerves and 25 nerve endings. In all, you have millions of these nerve endings fanning through your skin, or dermis, each specially constructed to deliver only one type of message—heat or cold, pain or pressure. You're actually "skinnier" in some places than in others.

The measurement of skin ranges from one sixth of an inch thick on soles of the feet to about one 50th of an inch thin over the eyelid.

Lessons, Carols Service At Christ Church Sunday

In the wake of Thanksgiving and the push for the celebration of Christmas, the four weeks of Advent, the Christian time of preparation for Christmas, are often forgotten. These four weeks are actually more historical in their celebration than is the current form of celebrating Christmas.

The Parish of Christ Church, Central Street, Andover, is continuing an ecumenical tradition by offering to the community an opportunity to join in the celebration of Advent with scriptures and carols appropriate to the season on Sunday, Dec. 2, at 4 p.m. Open to all, the program will involve 11 clergy from Andover churches and the Parish Choir of Christ Church in a Lessons and Carols Candlelight Service.

Lessons and carols services are relative newcomers to the United States, being copies of the now famous service held annually, since 1918, at King's College, Cambridge, England. The origin of this service dates back to the reign of King Henry VI of England in the mid-15th century when a Lessons and Carols Service was first used to symbolize the good will of town-gown relationships with the students at Eton. The current, popular format was created by the Bishop of Truro, England, for use in his cathedral, and shortly after modified for King's. Since that time the basic concept has been used for various seasons of the year where carols, hymns and songs can be correlated with scriptural passages and other readings.

The lessons for Advent are full of Old Testament prophecy. Christ Church's ecumenical service draws from the Books of Genesis, Isaiah, Micah and Zephaniah. As the readings progress to the actual birth of Jesus, two selections are taken from the Gospels of Luke and Matthew.

Interspersed between each reading are Advent hymns and carols which reflect the subject matter of the word. Many of the hymns have become traditionally associated with the season, but others are not as well known. With the leadership of the Christ Church Parish Choir, the audience will have the opportunity to sing 11 pieces of music from the Episcopal hymnal, a hymn collection rich in Advent texts.

Three of the hymns are from very an-

West Parish Celebrates Advent

Marcia Hohn, Joan Johnson and Joe Ken plan Advent services for West Parish Church.

West Parish Church, 129 Reservation Road, Andover, invites Greater Lawrence residents, especially new residents, to join in celebration of the Advent season.

On Sunday, Dec. 2, the first Sunday of Advent, the congregation will celebrate the beginning of this joyous season with a special 10:30 a.m. worship and communion service, followed by an "all church luncheon" and Christmas decoration workshop (wreath-making, crafts).

All ages are welcome at the worship, but a nursery and Sunday School for K-6 are available. Activities will be available for young children during the workshops.

Future Advent plans include the Christmas Pageant on December 23 and Christmas Eve family services. For further information, call the church office between 9 a.m. and 3 p.m.

A Helpful Hint

Preparing chocolate desserts with unsweetened cocoa is a great way to ensure rich, chocolatey flavor while saving time, mess and money.

Versatile cocoa can be used in baking chocolate recipes; three level tablespoons cocoa, plus one level tablespoon shortening (solid or liquid), equals a one-ounce square of baking chocolate.

Musical Duo At Service

Full Circle, a Rhode Island-based music duo, will sing at the 10:50 morning service and will present a concert at 6:30 p.m. this Sunday, Dec. 2, at the Andover Baptist Church.

Bill Colwell and Brian Fox have been involved in music since their early years. Possessing a genuine love for the art, they have experimented with various musical instruments (piano, flute, etc.) and found their major interest was the guitar.

Their real growth as musicians began as roommates at Barrington College in Rhode Island. Fox was a member of the folk gospel group, Potter's Clay, while Colwell worked in numerous Christian and secular bands. Learning from each other's musical styles, they gradually became aware of God's leading to a full-time music ministry. They committed themselves totally to this ministry in the spring of 1980 and have been sharing their faith through song performing in the southern new England area since that time.

Together they have discovered a unique style appealing to all ages. Their repertoire includes their own compositions taken from their personal experiences in the Christian Walk and a smooth blending of jazz, folk and rock styles.

that the buffer zone was important in "maintaining the character of that historical district."

Board member Michael Houghton outlined three areas where McNeil had "deviated" from the concept plan approved at town meeting. First, McNeil had traded the "architectural unity" of the original plan, in which every unit would be the same style, for a mixture of two or three styles.

Houghton said that secondly, the new design resembled "essentially single-family houses," rather than Matarazzo's "much more tight unit, with two units backed together."

Finally, the absence of a buffer zone in the northwest corner was a "very big issue," the planner said, because McNeil's plan "bumps those units right up to the open space" that rings the site.

Chairman Bradshaw told the developers, "You have chosen to do a different architectural scheme, and we have to contend with, is the amenity of the neighborhood changed? And of what benefit is this to the town?"

She advised the developers to "return to the original concept plan — or we would see this as being to the detriment of the neighborhood."

Southworth responded that McNeil and Associates had viewed the Matarazzo plan as simply "a concept plan."

Their design would be "more marketable, more attractive, and a better asset to the neighborhood," he told the board. Placing the garages to the side, for instance, would be more attractive and would allow easier access to the units for fire protection, he said.

He added that McNeil's units, while

Town Meeting Returning To Memorial Auditorium

The J. Everett Collins Performing Arts Center at Andover High School is a great place for a concert, one selectman said last week, but not such a great place for a town meeting.

Selectman William Dalton commented last Monday night that he would like to see 1985 annual town meeting returned to Memorial Auditorium at Doherty Junior High School next spring, and his colleagues agreed.

"The Collins Center is a beautiful place, but I was a little bit disappointed in the town meeting held there," Dalton told the town manager. The selectman said he preferred the "intimacy" and "tradition" of Memorial Auditorium, and found it "a much more attractive place for town meeting."

He added that with renovations at the adjoining town and school offices complete, "We have something to show off here now. I would rather see it (town meeting) come back to this hall."

Town Manager Kenneth Mahony said he believed a Community Services activity had already been scheduled for the auditorium for the night town meeting is supposed to convene — April 1 — but that he could probably have that scheduling changed.

Board members also noted that the renovated Memorial Auditorium now seats only 625, compared to the 1,250 seats at the Collins Center, so the new hall might be needed if large crowds are anticipated. Mahony said he would reserve both auditoriums.

The manager said that at the moment, he doesn't expect to see "anything too controversial" on the annual warrant.

The warrant will open for the insertion of all town and private articles at 8:30 a.m. tomorrow, Nov. 30, and will close at 4:30 p.m. Monday, Jan. 7.

Winter Coaches Named

Winter coaches for the town's secondary schools were appointed by the School Committee at their Tuesday, Nov. 20, meeting. The votes on all appointments were unanimous.

At Andover High School the coaches will be: boys basketball, head coach, Thomas Ryser, $3,159; girls basketball, head coach, Karen Kennedy, $2,703; junior varsity boys basketball, George Sullivan, $2,210; junior varsity girls basketball, Sandra Lunt, $1,926; ski coach, Richard Stevens, $1,926; hockey coach, Peter Grogan, $2,210; junior varsity hockey, Thomas Lawler, $1,017; head coach, track, Glenn Alsup, $2,544; track assistant coach, Gerald Grasso and Arthur Iworsley, both $1,657; physical education and athletics business manager, William Drummond, $1,555; boys gymnastics, S. Sirois, $2,544. A coach has not yet been hired for the girls gymnastic team, according to the school personnel office.

Doherty Junior High coaches are: girls basketball, James Hurley, $1,657; boys basketball, Robert Hatem, $1,657; cheerleading, Kathy Mohan, $356. And at West Junior High: girls basketball, James Darin, $1,017, boys basketball, Lowell Canovitch, $1,657; cheerleading, Marilyn Santigati, $297 were appointed coaches. Coaching salaries are set by the teaching rank of those coaches teaching

Seifert Committed To Creation Of Research, Development Center

By Susan Rand

If they are to be successful in the future, Superintendent Kenneth R. Seifert thinks the town's educators need a research and development center, something he is committed to creating this year.

Claiming he has the support of the five-member school board, Seifert has started teaching school department employees about how a R & D center will work.

Space on the third floor of the school administration building has been designated as the school's research and development center, he said. It is to be a central location for research materials, meeting and study space and equipment that may be used in research.

Successful businesses and industries set aside funds and personnel for research and development, Seifert said in a letter to all school employees, dated Nov. 1. But, he continued, schools are criticized because they do not consider research and development necessary.

Asking Andover's teachers and administrators to work on special projects — in their spare time — has worn thin, Seifert told THE TOWNSMAN. The research work he proposes cannot be another "extra" job. Those involved have to be compensated and their R & D assignments must be separate from teaching responsibilities.

"In business, research and development is not addition to a day's work," Seifert said in a recent interview. There is a right way to work R & D into the schools, he added.

Some ideas for freeing up teachers and administrators for R & D work includes paying them to work on research in the summer; releasing educators from their teaching duties for days at a time, or for a specific time each day or awarding in-service credits (which in turn translate into a higher rank on the pay scale) for R & D work.

But the support, mostly in the form of funding for research and development, must come from the School Committee. Seifert told the committee the importance of making a research and development commitment to school employees at a school board meeting on Nov. 6.

"If we don't have a commitment to research and development," Seifert told the five-member board, "assume what you have is what you get. You must put resources into it. If you don't, when you rev people up, the cost is going to be very high."

One Andover educator, who is also the president of the Andover Education Association, buttressed Seifert's claims that if educators are to be involved with research and development it must be instead of work they are doing, not in addition to their workloads. AEA President Steve Jankauskas also said that teachers aren't sure exactly what the R & D center is.

"It's just so general that nobody knows what it means at this point," Jankauskas said. "The general idea of research and development is something we would favor," he added, "but does that (work) get added onto what you are doing or take the place of something you are doing?"

Seifert's R & D center isn't costing the town very much right now. One of the areas slated for discussion, thinking skills, is in the early stages of discussion by various town administrators and teachers.

Thinking skills is one of five areas Seifert listed to be explored this year. The other areas include staff development, diploma requirements, grade organization and technology in instruction. The School Committee also agreed, in their annual statement of goals, to discuss some of these topics through this year.

The thinking skills discussions are in their first stages with Assistant Superintendent Lois Haslam leading a study group that has discussed the subject. A three-year plan has been devised to study thinking skills. The 1984-85 school year will be spent studying available research on the topic and reaching conclusions about the research that will lead to recommendations for implementing in-service training on thinking skills.

Both girls were awarded certificates from the Massachusetts Association of School Superintendents for their superior academic work.

Two Andover High School seniors were honored last week for their academic achievement when Kenneth R. Seifert, superintendent of Andover's schools, presented each with a certificate from the Massachusetts Association of Superintendents.

Jennifer Tilghman, 4 Lovejoy Road, and Stephanie Weinstein, 3 Crestwood Drive, were the first students in Andover to receive the superintendent's awards. Both seniors at Andover High School, the girls rank first and second in their class respectively, but Seifert said that class rank is not always the determining factor in presenting of the awards.

Created by the Massachusetts superintendents to honor students of excellent academic ability, the certificates may be presented to any student, Seifert said, but is usually given to a secondary school student.

"I reviewed students in all of the schools," said the superintendent. "This is a very special award and certainly a compliment to their families too."

Both Jennifer and Stephanie were unaware they won the awards until they were called to the high school office to have their pictures taken, they said.

Jennifer, 17, is interested in studying geology in college and Dartmouth College is her first choice. A co-editor-in-chief of the high school yearbook, Jennifer is also a member of the National Honor Society and was a National Merit semi-finalist. The daughter of Margo and Benjamin Tilghman, she works at Justin's Restaurant and in the Memorial Hall Library's inter-library loan office.

Stephanie, also 17, isn't sure where she wants to attend college next year but said her favorite subjects are mathematics and science. A manager of the high school's varsity soccer team, Stephanie also played soccer for two years. She is active outside school as president of the Temple Emmanuel youth group and was a summer camp counselor-in-training at Camp Nokimis, in N.H. The daughter of Nancy and Mark Weinstein, Stephanie is a member of the school's National Honor Society.

The statewide award is given by superintendents based on the population of the public school system. Andover's approximately 5,000 students gives Seifert the opportunity to choose two students for the awards each year.

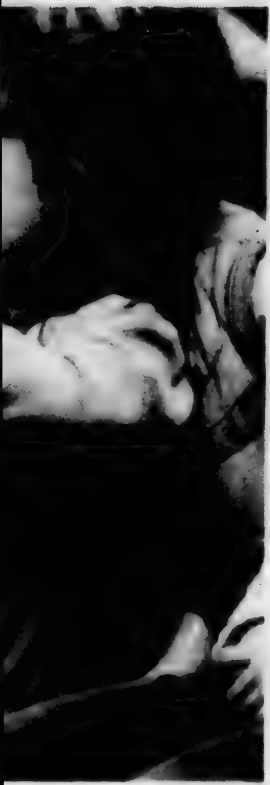

Annual Thanksgiving Program

Children and parents turned out to see the husband and wife duo of "Kith and Kin" perform at the annual Thanksgiving program at the Memorial Hall Library last week. "Kith and Kin" consists of Tom Callinan, a modern day minstrel and songwriter, also known for his work with the folk band, "The Morgans" and Ann Shapiro, an artist in residence for many schools, telling stories and singing songs. The duo from Connecticut had the audience participating with excitement as they sang their songs, told their stories, played a variety of instruments and spread their humor. Photos clockwise from upper left: Tom Callinan listens to the audience sing-a-long as Ann Shapiro provides tune on the guitar; Four-year-old Nicki Shoemaker sits back and enjoys the show; Tom on the sax; Joel Skaliotis, five, and his father, George, sing along; Two-year-old Teddy Jutras has a snack while watching the show with his mother, Maureen; Kith and Kin played a number of instruments during the performance; Nina Conn, 23-months, sets her sights on something other than the show while her mother, Ileen, follows the show; Ann strums a tune on a ukulele.

The Parking Problem

Andover's planning board acted properly in getting discussion concerning downtown parking underway early in order to be better prepared for a presentation to town meeting next spring.

But, while the early-discussion thought remains valid, it is obvious from that first meeting a couple of weeks ago that solutions to Andover's parking problems remain as far from a possibility as ever.

One of the suggestions offered in the new parking proposal by the planners is the introduction of parking credits, whereby new business in the community would pay the town a sum of money which would be placed in an account and used for maintenance or development of parking facilities.

This, of course, penalizes new business in view of parking facilities already being available free to already established business enterprises.

Too, it would tend to discourage new business from considering locating in Andover, or present commercial residents from expanding or improving properties.

While some may contend that there is no parking problem in Andover, there is firm evidence that there is difficulty and it needs to be addressed.

It can safely be stated that the planning board proposal in its present form does not address the principal problem--creation of more spaces for use by those utilizing the facilities and services of the Central Business District.

That the planning board is talking about parking at this early date allows for consideration of alternatives before going to the annual town meeting.

Among alternatives to consider is the construction of either a deck or garage at the municipal parking lot.

The site would appear to lend itself to such consideration, but the principal stumbling block would be the selling of the suggestion to the electorate, or taxpayers, at town meeting.

Townpeople have consistently rejected any financial assistance to resolving parking problems in the Central Business District, even, as was the case a few years ago, when state funding of a parking garage was proposed, first for the Memorial Hall Library site and later for the Heartland property off Park street.

Frankly, such an attitude must change.

General feeling among townpeople is that downtown merchants are reaping a fortune in sales and should spend that money resolving their parking problems.

Fact of the matter is, that while downtown merchants may find a profitable climate in Andover, they are not the financial giants one might suppose and able to toss money at a problem to make it go away.

Also, residents of the community, who utilize the downtown area themselves, certainly have some obligation to insure the economic well-being of the downtown area as well as the convenience of accommodating a visit to the business district with adequate parking facilities.

Toward that end, it is suggested that the business community join with the town in examining the possibility of providing the additional parking needed through considering improvements at the municipal parking lot. Business could make a proportionate contribution toward such improvement with the town picking up the additional cost, justifiably acceding to its role as a provider of services to the citizenry.

Additional parking facilities would then accommodate the business area, while effective control could respond to the problem of commuter and employee use of spaces which rightfully belong to the business community.

Down The Years With The Townsman

The game of the season in soccer circles will be played at Lawrence tomorrow, when Clan MacPherson and Methuen play their championship game. The Clan team is composed of the old Andover team which always could take the measure of the Methuen players and they are confident of doing it again tomorrow.

There is now on exhibition in the Archaeology building, Phillips Academy, a large collection of Indian beadwork. This exhibition is of Indian art and consists of costumes, dance belts, shirts and large ceremonial sacks. The objects are not "relics" but exhibit the highest art of modern Indians in beadwork. The people of Andover are invited to see the display.

A temperance service was held at the session of the South Church Sunday school last Sunday at which interesting papers relating to alcohol and its abuses were read by Miss Fannie Erving, Reginald Chutter, James Marhsall, Miss Edith Kendall, Roderick Cannon; and Alexander Morrison.

The death of Dr. Donald Churchill is one of the saddest that has come to Andover people for a long while. As one of the boys in Andover who had gone out from here and made good, he had been in the minds of many who knew him in his early days in these years of his growth. He was rapidly taking the highest place among the physicians of Providence as a surgeon, and there was rare promise that he would become one of the leading surgeons of the country before he had reached middle life.

Several local men with intelligence and initiative may receive work this winter in an adult education project to be sponsored by the E.R.A. A local need for teachers has arisen in an adult education project including academic, commercial, vocational and recreational groups. The project is designed for people who have dependents and no resources or income.

A tentative layout of Lowell Street was approved Monday by the board of selectmen. The layout was submitted by state officials who have surveyed the road from Tewksbury to Shawsheen Village square recently. The present slippery surface and high crown, which have proved very dangerous in the past, will be eliminated. Several of the very bad curves will be straightened out somewhat but the trend will be toward keeping the present less dangerous curves, in order to make it a safe scenic highway rather than a trunk-line road. The cost will be borne entirely by the federal government.

A hearing on the question of whether Andover and other Merrimack Valley communities should be assessed a part of the cost of a purification plant for the shellfish area within the limits of the town of Salisbury and the city of Newburyport is being held before the supreme court in Boston today. The department of public health has determined the sources of pollution of the contaminated area and the proportion in which the cities and towns within the commonwealth are contributing to the pollution. Andover's share is 1.8 percent.

Town Manager Thomas E. Duff anticipates considerable difficulty in controlling gravel pits during the next two or three years. His comment came after hearing a suggestion that the whole field of gravel pit control be turned over to the building inspector, and the Board of Appeals for difficult cases. Town Counsel Fredric S. O'Brien told the selectmen he thinks they spend too much time on gravel pit problems, and that he thought that the inspector could control the pits adequately. The town counsel also told the Board that there is little it can do to control abandoned pits, unless they happen to have come into town possession.

Two members of the Board of Selectmen expressed deep concern Monday night that proper procedures are not be-

Richardson Acting Principal

Andover High School Assistant Principal Stephen Richardson has taken over for Mary Athey Jennings, principal at Andover High, who began her maternity leave early on the advice of her physician.

Jennings has been out of the Shawsheen Road school since Oct. 31, and will probably take the rest of the year off, said Superintendent Kenneth R. Seifert.

As temporary principal Richardson will receive about $4,000 more than his current salary, now under negotiation in the town's bargaining with the public school administrators. Seifert said. The vacancy created by Richardson's move created temporary moves for two other school employees.

Jack Hughes, who is assistant principal at Doherty Junior High School, will work as acting assistant principal at Andover High through the end of the school year. Hughes will be paid a salary based on an annual rate of $34,743 while at Andover High. This represents an increase of about $1,000, said Seifert.

And Kenneth Pellerin will take over for Hughes at Doherty. Pellerin is a business teacher at Doherty and will be acting assistant principal through June 30, 1985. His salary increase is about $3,500, Seifert said. Pellerin will be paid based on an annual salary of $33,110.

The salary increases were unanimously approved by the School Committee at their Tuesday, Nov. 20 meeting. Committee member Robert F. Smith was absent from the meeting.

The committee also approved the appointment of Eleanor Costanzo to the position of health aide at the Bancroft Elementary School. Costanzo will earn $5.29 an hour for her 35 hours of work a week.

Evelyn Cullinane, a physical education teacher at Andover High School, was appointed head teacher for physical education at the high school. The additional responsibilities of the head teacher position will bring Cullinane a stipend of $396.

And the committee approved stipends of $100 for seven elementary school teachers who spend five days camping with their classes as part of the school system's outdoor education program. The teachers are Louise Cullinan, Bonnie Browning and Ruth Trepanier, of Sanborn School; and Maurice Ferris, Robert Littlefield, Joyce McGrath and Barbara Roulston, of Bancroft Elementary.

Rules For Contented Living

Health enough to make work a pleasure. Wealth enough to support your needs. Strength to battle with difficulties and overcome them. Grace enough to confess your sins and forsake them. Patience enough to toil until some good is accomplished. Charity enough to see some good in your neighbor. Love enough to move you to be useful and helpful to others. Faith enough to make real the things of God. Hope enough to remove all anxious fears concerning the future.

For Dieters

Dieters who want to succeed should promise themselves some pleasant activities during the day, psychologists say. Exercise with a friend, see a good movie, make time for your favorite hobbies. Brighten low-calorie diets with delicious, but nonfattening, treats, such as a hot cup of tea between meals. Soothing and satisfying, it can help keep your waistline trim.

Fitness Tips

Too much housework to do to spend time exercising? Not so, say experts. Wear loose fitting clothing and turn on the radio to brisk music with a beat while doing housework. You can improve the line of your shoulder and upper back by doing head rolls. Simply put your chin in your chest, take a deep breath and circle your head slowly. Be sure to make a complete 360-degree arc.

Warriors Bow

Lawrence Central Catholic's Red Raiders gave themselves two reasons for celebrating last Thursday. One was Thanksgiving Day and the other, a 13-6 win over the Andover High Warriors. The traditional game was well attended as fans packed both stands at Eugene V. Lovely Field and overflowed onto the sidelines to see this last game of the season. Andover PeeWee Bs

By Ed Owens

The week before Thanksgiving saw Andover very busy with two games. On Tuesday they handily defeated Stoneham 3-2.

The PeeWee Bs came out flying in the first two periods and, before you could blink an eye, the score was 3-0 Andover. Scorers were Mark Ruskin (2), the newest member of the team, and Danny Feeley (1). Fast skating and perfect positional play is starting to give the boys confidence out of town on Wednesday night and Peabody won 3-1.

Andover Hockey Association

Under the able leadership of Head Coach Charlie Donovan and Assistant Coach Lou LoPresti, the Andover Bantam A's have been competing since early September. They play in the Danvers League at Twin Rinks and in the Valley League at Merrimack College and travel to Canada in February.

Members of the Bantam A team are: James Berberian, defense; Tom Tormey, Joe Lyons, Pat Breen and Andy Weiner, forwards; Derek Cianci, Chris McNally, Rob Stoltz, Doug Bleszinski, Lou LoPresti and Chris Gravell, 14 year olds; Tim Lane, goalie; Chip Stella and David Sopp, defense; Matt Pothier, Glen Farnham and Duke McNamara, forwards, 13 year olds.

Marblehead 5 - Andover 4

Marblehead came out flying hitting everything in sight. They peppered goalie Lane and built up a four-goal lead through a period and a half. The game stayed close because of Lane's strong goaltending. With less than six minutes left in the second period, Andover finally came alive. Stoltz lit the light after five passes from McNally and Stella on a power play. Just before the end of the period Pothier scored from a scramble in front, assists going to Stoltz and Bleszinski. However, Marblehead answered with their fifth goal.

The third period was all Andover. Cianci scored after a brilliant pass from Breen. Pothier swung the net and flipped in a backhander with a minute left, assists again to Stoltz and Bleszinski. Berberian, who played goal well in the third period, was pulled for the sixth skater. Despite a couple of good chances, Andover could not tie it up.

Andover 7 - Newburyport 3

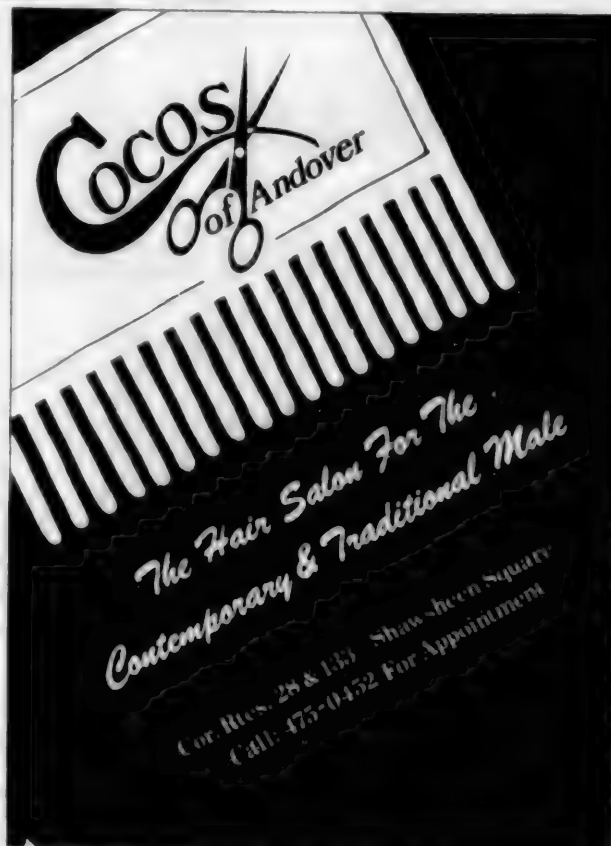

Andover beat Newburyport in a Valley League game. After a 2-1 first period, the A's blew it open with four second-period goals. Both goaltenders, Berberian and Lane, played very well.

Farnham opened the scoring with a nice pass from McNamara. Breen also put one in unassisted. Second-period scorers were: McNamara from Farnham and Gravell; Farnham from Gravell; Stoltz (2) both from Pothier. Pothier scored in the third period from Stoltz and Weiner.

Koerckel, Fox Take Sixth Place

Koerckel and Fox teamed with seniors Anne Herrmann and Claire Piazza for a 12th place finish in the 400 yard freestyle relay.

Auction To Assist Deer Island

If you enjoy an auctioneer's spiel, the excitement of competitive bidding, sipping champagne and sampling desserts, the Save Deer Island Committee offer them all on December 1 at Bossy's Restaurant, Amesbury Square, from 8 p.m. to 11 p.m.

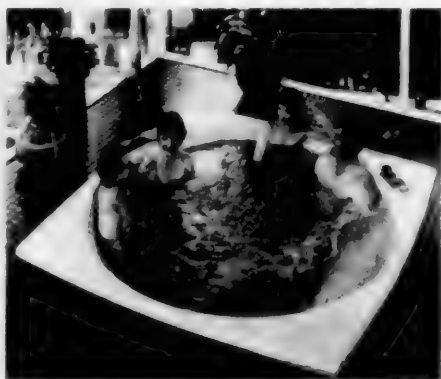

Zeke, the well-known Amesbury auctioneer, will put more than 50 donated items on the block with the proceeds donated to replenish the Merrimack River Protection Fund. Some of the items include a get-away night and breakfast for two at Newburyport's Morrill Place, a weekend on Peaks Island in Casco Bay, cozy lunches at the Grog, Scandia, Michael's Harborside and Ten Center Street, an upriver cruise on the Merrimack in a replica of a 1924 John Hacker runabout, legal services by Douglas Bolick, five Cabbage Patch dolls, a weekend for skiing at Sunday River, handcrafted jewelry and a rod and reel worth several hundred dollars.

Gina Moscardini, chairman of the Save Deer Island Benefit, reports that community support has been strong. "People in the lower Merrimack towns have been solidly behind our effort to rebuild the Protection Fund."

The Save Deer Island Committee is attempting to replace the Merrimack River Protection Fund given to the town of Amesbury for the protection and purchase of Deer Island.

Doherty Junior High Happenings

By Amy Mencis and Kyle Murphy

The field hockey team finished their season with a 1-0 victory over a strong West team. They remained unbeaten in league play with their only loss going to a strong Phillips J.V. team. The lone goal against West was scored by Amy Mencis with an assist going to Lisa Fossella. Playing fine offense were Kate Hollenbeck, Julie Casanave, Amy Jutras and Laura Johnston. Excellent offense and defense was demonstrated by Kristen Tammaro and Alison Vaill. Amy Baun, Beth Howe, Lisa Lothridge, Kelly Darwin and Erin O'Boyle played strong defense and Amy Moody did a fine job of protecting Doherty's goal. All members of the team should be proud of their fine 7-1 season.

The girls' soccer team won their final game against West Junior High School with Heather Pomeroy (1) and Sharon Petzold (2) scoring. Their season record was 8-3. Congratulations to all the girls.

The boys' soccer team was victorious against Chelmsford on October 30. Goals by Tom Cioffi (2), passes by Steve Napolitano and Steve Mencis and a goal by Matt Corbett on a pass from Cioffi brought the score to 3-2. They beat North Andover 4-1 on November 2. Assists by Cioffi and Dave Schwind and goals by Corbett (2), Cioffi and A.J. Boutin kept Andover victorious. The Doherty-Brooks School game kept Doherty's reputation alive with a 3-1 win. Goals were scored by Cioffi (2) and Rick Banzi (1) on assists by Napolitano, Allan Boucher and Corbett. The team's record was 10-1.

A huge Pep Rally was held Friday, Nov. 16, to congratulate Doherty's successful sports teams. Everyone dressed in blue and gold and wore DJH t-shirts, buttons and caps. The annual Doherty vs. West game was held Saturday, Nov. 17. Doherty started off the scoring by Rick Lafond who took a handoff by quarterback Steve Surrence and went in and scored. Then Lafond scored the two-point conversion. West came back and tied the game. That's the way it stayed for the rest of the game. The whole Doherty team played very well, wrapping up the season with a 6-0

Congratulations to all team members. The total DJH team record for fall sports was 31-5-1.

The student council held its annual canned good drive last week to help the Salvation Army give food to the needy in the Merrimack Valley. The drive started November 8 and ended November 16. Day one brought in about 75 cans; day two, 125 cans; day three, 565 cans and day four 1,214. We were well short of last year's record of 3,654, but the last day the total doubled, bringing in 2,548 cans, to beat last year's amount by 1,210. School-wide total was 4,860. The winning homeroom was homeroom 210. Vice President Kyle Murphy and representative Cheryl Kluck were chairmen of this Thanksgiving drive. Committee members were Sharon Petzold, Christine Colangeli, Lisa Fossella and Amy Mencis. Many thanks to all who contributed.

The student council sponsored their annual Roll-On-America skating party Monday, Nov. 19. More than 300 DJH students attended.

The student council sponsored a "Powder Puff" football game on November 20 in which the ninth grade girls played football while the boys performed as cheerleaders. Captains for the teams were Kelly "Darwin's Destroyers" and Beth "Howe's Cows." Cheering were captains Brandon McCue and Barry Connors, Ryan Murphy, Chris Paten, Steve Mencis, Aleke Msumba, Scott Carleton, John Shaw, Peter Vehlow, Ricky Lafond and Tom Murray. Thanks to Katie Hollenbeck, Nancy Walsh and Beth Vince for their great organizational skills.

Reception For Author At Abbot House

Mr. and Mrs. Joel Claydon, present owners of the circa 1685 Abbott House on Andover Street, recently hosted a reception for Boston nutritionist and recent author Miriam Erick. Erick's first book, "Pregnancy and Nutrition: The Complete Guide and Calendar for D.I.E.T.* During Pregnancy 1985-1986" was released this August by the Grinnen-Barrett Publishing Co. of Brookline and is available at the Andover Book Store.

Pat Gleason-Claydon and Margery Gann of Newton, both registered dietitians and epicurians from their respective locales, created a variety of les specialites de gastronomie for the event. These included spinach-filo triangles, crudites with fresh Aioli sauce, petit cocktail puffs with crab supreme filling, coconut-coated tidbits of curried chicken and a delicacy of romaine lettuce served with French bread dipped in a garlic butter sauce.

Among the guests were Mary Ellen Collins, director of the department of dietetics and nutrition at The Brigham and Women's Hospital, a consultant to the project and Andover's Sean Gresh, author of "Becoming a Father," as well as many colleagues, friends and family members.

The history and restoration work done to this magnificent old home was described by Joel Claydon, recognized old house curator and real estate analyst, during the informal house tours.

Attended Meeting

Bartlett Hayes of Andover and Mrs. Walter Muir Whitehill of North Andover attended the semi-annual meeting of the Board of Overseers of Strawberry Banke historic museum neighborhood in Portsmouth, N.H.

Strawberry Banke, the name given to Portsmouth by the first English settlers in 1630, is a non-profit, ten-acre museum of 35 historic buildings, working craft shops and exhibits depicting four centuries of cultural and architectural change.

The museum's Board of Overseers is a national advisory committee dedicated to furthering the education purposes and goals of Strawberry Banke.

The late October meeting was attended by board members from around the country and focused on Strawberry Banke's recently announced $2.51 million capital investment campaign, designed to "Make one of New England's most important outdoor museums dramatically more attractive, interesting and enjoyable."

Thirteen unrestored buildings, located on the museum grounds, are slated for restoration in the first phase of the multi-year capital project. Another 11 buildings, which stand on their original foundations, will receive less extensive, but necessary, improvements.

The $2+ million investment will be raised during a three-year campaign to be launched in January. Support for the effort will be sought from individuals, corporations and foundations from the New England region and beyond.

larger than Matarazzo's design, would have no greater "visual impact" because they would be on a "lower scale" than Matarazzo's "taller, more massive" units.

As for the buffer area to be left in the northwest corner of the site, the McNeil representatives said that it did not appear in the conservation restrictions placed on the site before town meeting.

Only two areas were delineated in the conservation restriction, Southworth said: a "green belt" of open space that would be left undeveloped, and area that could be developed. McNeil's plans fall within the development area, he said.

But the planners emphasized that there was to be an additional buffer area in the corner in question, over and above the green belt, equal in width to a roadway.

Noting that the planning board first began their review of Barenboim's plans in October 1983, Bradshaw told the developers, "It's unfortunate that it took us this long to get together." She suggested that before they appeared before the zoning board, McNeil should have first discussed their plans with the planning board.

The McNeil engineer noted that during the Nov. 1 ZBA hearing, the "main issue" of concern to neighbors was a building planned for the north side of the development's roadway. Abutters opposed that plan, saying that no buildings were planned for that side of the road in the Matarazzo plan.

Haley said Tuesday night that that building had since been eliminated from McNeil's plans, reducing the total number of units from 29 to 27. McNeil would present this revised plan to the zoning board next Thursday night, he indicated, to "settle that issue."

It was unlikely that the plans to be presented to the ZBA next week would reflect any of the concerns expressed by the planning board this week, Haley said.

For Those Of Us Who Are Older

By Janet D. Lake

This weekend is an important one at the senior center—it's the Holiday Fair time. Starting at 5 p.m. Friday (tomorrow) until 9 p.m. and then from 10 a.m. to 4 p.m. on Saturday, there will be all kinds of craft items, plants, white elephants and baked goods for sale. There will be a ham and bean supper Friday night ($3.50 for adults, $2 for children under 12), coffee and donuts Saturday morning and a lunch of clam chowder and hot dogs from 11:30 a.m. to 2:30 p.m. The Firemen's Annual Christmas Parade will start from the new town hall, so why not stop by early Saturday to do your Christmas shopping and get a hot bite to eat before the parade starts at 1 p.m. You'll be right on the scene. No tickets are required for the ham and bean supper; just present yourself on time. The proceeds from the fair will be used to defray some of the costs of the center and senior activities.

Nex Monday, Dec. 3, at 1 p.m. Roger Brooks from Brown's Hotel in the Catskills will get to present his demonstration exercise and dance class. You'll want to be there, either to participate or watch. Either way it will be fun.

The December Christmas Party will be Tuesday, Dec. 4, at 12:45 p.m. If you have a December birthday, let the staff know so you can be a guest of honor. Otherwise, why not come and help the December people celebrate their day? Of course, there will birthday cake.

State Senator Pat McGovern, along with representatives from the offices of the commissioners of insurance and banking and the assistant secretary of consumer affairs, will conduct a seminar entitled "Consumer Issues Affecting the Elderly" on Wednesday, Dec. 5, at 9 a.m. Areas of concern will include filing a complaint, medigap in Medex and life insurance, home equity conversion, as well as other consumer issues especially of concern to the elderly.

At 1 p.m. that same day, the Andover

Historical Society will present its program, "West Parish Woman." Refreshments will be served at both activities.

Tickets for the Elks Club Christmas parties are about to be distributed. The tickets are free, but only one ticket to a person. One of a couple may receive a ticket for each, otherwise only one. Tickets for the December 16 party will be available Friday, Dec. 10, at 10 a.m. and for the December 23 party, December 14, at 10 a.m. Transportation will be available. The number of tickets for each party is limited.

The next mini-clinic is December 4 at the senior center from 2 p.m. to 4 p.m. Call the health department for an appointment.

Elizabeth Leavitt, daughter of Thomas and Mary Leavitt, 26 Andover St., North Andover, is attending Bates College in Maine.

A graduate of Phillips Academy, Leavitt was involved in the school newspaper, served as photo editor of the yearbook and was a member of Junior Achievement.

The Lewiston, Maine, liberal arts college is the oldest coeducational institution of higher learning in New England and the second oldest in the country.

Center

The research and development projects Seifert is proposing will have an effect on the entire school system, instead of the smaller projects done in years past that affected one grade or school, he explained. For example, a program called "new emphasis" provided grant money for small projects proposed by teachers and administrators. This year there is some $50,000 available for research and development, the bulk of which will go to the smaller projects because the larger topics are not yet at stages where they need funding to be studied, Seifert said.

(Last week's TOWNSMAN featured an article about a "new emphasis" project for which Andover dentist James Reilly and kindergarten teacher Mary K. Herbol created three sets of antique toys to be used in kindergarten classes and grade five field trips to the Andover Historical Society. That project was funded by a $250 grant.)

As the work with thinking skills becomes more defined, a school department three-year plan shows that in 1985-86 and 1986-87 more money will be needed to fund pilot projects in the schools, evaluate the projects, design a program for the system and again evaluate the creation.

At every phase of the R & D projects the school board as to approve the money needed, Seifert said. There is always the chance that the School Committee could end a project before it is completed, but Seifert said he doesn't see that happening. He added that he didn't know what would be requested for funding for research and development in next year's budget.

ing followed in obtaining Board of Health decisions on plans appearing before the Planning Board. Both Selectman William Stewart and Selectman Edward P. Hall said they know of cases where the Planning Board has approved plans without Board of Health approval. And Selectman Hall commented that septic drainage is "running off into the street" in at least one of these cases.

At the annual meeting of the Andover Village Improvement Society, held in the Central School Auditorium, Professor Charles Eliot spoke on the theme, "Saving Our Open Spaces." Professor Eliot says that there has been a remarkable growth in importance of open spaces in recent years — a revival of interest in communities to save what spaces they have and to get more.

Signs indicating directions to Lowell Junction industrial plants will be removed from the Clark-Dascomb Road intersection and efforts will be made to have trucks use alternative routes, as a result of another meeting on Ballardvale traffic problems with the Selectmen Monday night. The Selectmen admitted that they had been unable to make any progress in providing traffic relief since the original meeting on the subject in June. Efforts have been made to make short term arrangements, such as routing traffic over Ballardvale street in Wilmington, which the suburban town fathers have objected to.

Austin E. Anderson has been named chairman of the special committee appointed to study the feasibility of the town acquiring the Sacred Heart School property in Shawsheen. The committee is expected to include an examination of possible Phillips Academy land and buildings available, in addition to the Shawsheen land.

Members of the Andover Police Department took their protest against stalled collective bargaining to the streets this past week, picketing in front of town hall. The public safety unit was protesting a provision in the contract which stipulates a member may not work overtime for three days after receiving sick leave. There was no work stoppage.

could not meet the tuition costs this year.)

"This will be a totally self-supporting program," Mrs. Pearson emphasizes, "and it will contribute money back to the school for services and equipment. This isn't costing the taxpayers more money."

SHED has already repaired and replaced some playground equipment at the Shawsheen, and the director expects her program to help pay for other school equipment (including, for instance, library books) in the future.

Although the day care program operates independently of the early childhood education center, Mrs. Pearson and Mrs. Gershenberg work closely together (to plan use of the library and gymnasium, for example).

"This could not be done without the total cooperation of the school department," Joan says — including the School Committee, Superintendent Kenneth Seifert, Assistant Superintendent for Elementary Education Lois Haslam, and the entire Shawsheen school staff of teachers, administrators and custodians.

From the school department's point of view, this collaboration is "working out beautifully," Linnea Gershenberg says. "We were very lucky this year to have the space for this program in the school."

The Shawsheen Extended Day Care program grew out of a DCS study of child care needs in Andover that began last January. After surveying parents throughout the town, volunteers who worked on the study found that "this particular need (extended day care for kindergartners) seemed to be the greatest, so that became our major focus," the DCS director says.

Most of the families now using the program are two-parent families in which both spouses work outside the home, and they use the SHED program three to five days each week.

In January, SHED may expand to include children who would attend only one or two days each week. Mothers who do not work outside the home, or who do volunteer work, have shown "a lot of interest" in that possibility, Joan says.

Did You Know?

Venetian blinds originated in the time of Marco Polo, during the 1200s. The earliest styles were fixed and made of wood. They were called "persiana" by the Italians and "jalousie a la persienne" by the French.

The 18th century brought new developments in the art of making venetian blinds. The new blinds were adjustable, some were made of wood and some of iron. George Washington had these new blinds installed at Mount Vernon. The Declaration of Independence was signed in a room with venetian blinds.

However, she adds that families who need to use the program five days a week will still be given top priority. (SHED can accept a maximum of 72 children, 36 in the morning and 36 in the afternoon session.)

Mrs. Pearson would also like to see SHED expanded to become a year-round program. For the most part, the day care program currently follows the school calendar (it does, however, remain open on snow days and teacher inservice training days).

"We're planning from here to go on in our study of child care needs," the DCS director

To Appear In "Nutcracker"

By Susan Rand

Andover residents celebrating the holidays with a trip to the Boston Ballet's production of "The Nutcracker" might recognize two familiar faces.

Local ballerinas Jennifer Lane Howard, 11, and nine-year-old Octavia Hollander will perform in two different casts of the annual presentation.

Jennifer, the daughter of Peggy and Joseph Howard, 7 Livingston Circle, may be seen from opening night, Dec. 6, through Dec. 16. She will play one of a dozen soldiers fighting to save Clara from the mice and also the role of a bird, one of four in the production. Jennifer attends Bancroft School, where she is a sixth grader.

Octavia, no stranger to the Boston "Nutcracker," will repeat the part of "Polichinelle," the clown, that she danced in last year's production. The daughter of Pat and Ron Hollander, Octavia, 58 Ballardvale Road, is a fourth grader at the Pike School. She will appear in the Dec. 22 to 30 performances.

Both girls have been dancing for a number of years and now take lessons at the Boston School of Ballet, where young dancers annually try out for roles in the famous holiday performance. Octavia, dancing since she was 6, also dances at Le Studio de Ballet, said her mother Pat. And Jennifer has danced with Voter's School of Ballet, in Methuen, and started, at age 5, at Andover School of Ballet.

Each year Andover public school students travel to see "The Nutcracker," and this year third graders will have the chance to see Jennifer at the Dec. 12 performance, something Jennifer said she is very excited about.

says. "The need for child care on every level is great, and growing—it's not diminishing.

"Our next project will be extended day care at the elementary school level—that's another very important need, and we hope to have something in place next September." The DCS study committee will begin work on that program in January.

In the meantime, "thrilled" by the way parents and children have accepted the "innovative" program, Joan hopes the Shawsheen Extended Day Care program for kindergartners will become "a permanent fixture" in Andover.

"It's working," she says with real enthusiasm. "And that's what's really exciting."

Country Club Plan Amended

The Planning Board approved an amendment to plans for section four of Andover Country Club Estates and reviewed plans for a 24-lot subdivision off Bellevue Road and a two-lot subdivision off Orchard Street as well, during a Tuesday night meeting at town offices on Bartlet Street.

The board voted unanimously (with Paul Curley and Russ Moran absent) to approve an amendment to the country club development that will allow developer Yvon Cormier to lower the grade of the roadway proposed for section four.

of Lowell, representing the developer, explained that the length and location of Clubview Drive will remain the same, but the road will be graded six or seven feet lower than originally proposed.

Clubview Drive will start at Beacon Street and end in a cul-de-sac near the country club's clubhouse.

Section four is a 38.9-acre portion of the 360-acre country club development. Sixteen house lots will be clustered around the new roadway in the section, which includes several fairways on the club golf course.

The board later held a public hearing on definitive plans for Granli Estates, a 23-lot cluster proposed by Timothy Sullivan of Andover for a 34.7-acre parcel off Bellevue Road. The site would include 11.8 acres of open space.

The site includes a pond which, according to Andover Atty. George Rand, would be owned and maintained by a non-profit Homeowners Association made up of all residents of the subdivision. (Chairman Margaret Bradshaw said special town counsel would review the attorney's proposal for that association next week, to make sure that "the town will be able to live with it.")

Ferrante said the subdivision

Avenue, is a seventh-grader at Doherty Junior High School.

Already a seasoned gymnastics competitor at 13, Jason will spend next week at the National Junior Olympics Training Center in Colorado Springs, Colo. He'll fly to Colorado on Saturday with a group of 13 other young New England gymnasts, and return Dec. 8.

A total of 42 youngsters from all over the country will attend the center next week, Jason's mother explains, for a "very intense" training session (not competition). "It will be their first exposure to the real rigors of gymnastics," Mrs. Fox says.

The week will culminate in testing to determine whether Jason qualifies to become part of the National Junior Elite, the highest class in youth gymnastics, Mrs. Fox says.

Jason is not sure just what the regimen will be at the camp next week, but he's looking forward to "learning more, getting better training and working with more equipment" than he's ever done before.

It may be hard work, he says, but he expects to enjoy it because, "I like gymnastics — it's fun to me."

Jason was surprised to be chosen for the honor of attending the training center. "I'm excited," he says. "I'm really glad that I'm going. I didn't think it would happen."

A regional board of judges chose the 14 New England gymnasts who will travel to Colorado, Mrs. Fox says. The judges chose Jason on the basis of his top scores during the 1984 competitive season, she notes: "We had no idea he was in the running."

Jason competes in every gymnastics event: floor exercise, rings, parallel bars, high bars, and pommel horse. In the Class Three Compulsory category, he was the second-highest scorer in state competition, and the top scorer in a regional competition held in May. He is the only New England gymnast in his class who's been selected to attend the national training camp, his mother says.

Does Jason believe he might some day compete in the Olympics as a member of the United States gymnastics team? Not one for brash predictions, he responds: "Maybe."

In the meantime, the gymnast says, he's "very happy" that he's about to have a week in Colorado Springs to work at his sport — and dream about 1988.

Justin's May Be Sold

Justin's Restaurant may be owned by a North Andover restaurateur if the transfer of the Park Street restaurant's liquor license goes as planned at a Board of Selectmen hearing.

Financial arrangements, too, will determine if Gerhard H. Schnellinger, of North Andover, a consultant to the Whittier Inn, a restaurant in Haverhill's Washington Square, purchases Justin's Restaurant from owners Yvonne and Brian James.

Schnellinger declined to discuss the sale, saying he was still in the "negotiation stage."

"It is much too soon to make a statement," he said. "It (the sale) is still pending. I am very confident the deal will go through."

Yvonne and Brian James did not return THE TOWNSMAN's call to discuss the sale.

The Board of Selectmen will hear a request from Justin's Restaurant, owned by Andymes Management Corporation, to transfer the license that allows alcoholic beverages to be served on the premises to Justin's of Andover Inc., a corporation which Schnellinger heads as president and chief stockholder, said his attorney Andrew F. Shea, of Andover.

The public hearing is set for 7:30 p.m., in the selectmen's third floor conference room in the town building, Bartlet Street.

But, if the Board of Selectmen decide to approve the license transfer, that approval must stand before the state Alcohol Beverage Control Commission, which must also approve all alcohol licenses granted by city and towns boards. Shea told THE TOWNSMAN the ABCC will check such matters as Schnellinger's credentials and tax liabilities.

Schnellinger hopes to purchase Justin's name, furniture, fixtures, and inventory, said Shea, who added that his client's work in the restaurant business will be to his benefit.

"I think they (Board of Selectmen) will be well disposed to this," Shea said of the license transfer. "He (Schnellinger) intends to be there. He's had restaurant experience, his family owns a restaurant in Austria. This has been the business of his family for a number of years."

Shea said it was impossible to say when the sale would be finalized because, he added, it is hard to guess how long the ABCC will take to decide the question if the selectmen approve the transfer.

Companies holding all-alcohol licenses must pay an annual fee of $3,000 for the licenses, according to Andover Town Clerk Elden R. Salter.

Justin's Restaurant, at 22 Park St., may be sold to a North Andover man if the Board of Selectmen approve a transfer of the restaurant's alcohol license, the first step in the sale of the business.

Retriever Most Popular

Ever wonder what the most popular canine in America is? According to the just-released Kal Kan report, the top dog is the Retriever, winning as the friendliest as well as the most favorite breed.

Dog owners and non-owners across the country were questioned about breed preferences and were asked which dogs they associated with specific professions and famous people. Kal Kan, a leading pet care company, commissioned the report as a salute to the American Kennel Club's 100th anniversary.

What else does the report reveal? Americans picked:

The collie and the setter as the best looking breeds, trailed by the Afghan and the Retriever.

The Afghan as the most exotic breed, and the classiest too. Following closely in the exotic category were the Shar-pei and Lhasa Apso.

The Bulldog as the homeliest breed; it received 42 percent of the vote. The Boxer and Chihuahua ranked second and third, respectively.

Americans definitely do prefer certain breeds, according to the report. Ranking in the top three for class and intelligence, the Poodle is also considered the most finicky. And the Retriever and Afghan either win, place or show in seven separate categories.

The complete results are available from Kal Kan, Department MAT, 3386 East 44th St., Vernon, CA 90058-0853.

Ten More Assigned To Bus As Safety Measure

Calling it a temporary safety measure, school officials have signed up ten more West Elementary School students, some of whom live as near as 100 yards to the Beacon Street school, to ride to school on a bus.

Last month parents of youngsters who walk along High Plain Road to the West school complained to the School Committee that the walk to school was dangerous for their children. Many said they thought sidewalks should be installed along the busy roadway, something the school board does not have the jurisdiction to do.

A letter was mailed to 28 families of West students living near the school, said School Transportation Coordinator Carol Znamierowski, offering bus rides to their children. Ten of the letters returned asking for bus rides and six turned the idea down, she said of the 16 returns received.

The new bus riders will be picked up on the same bus, Znamierowski said, at no extra cost to the school system.

She said a lot of the letters returned criticizing the solution to the traffic problem, saying instead that sidewalks should be installed along High Plain Road.

"That's not my problem," Znamierowski said. "Getting them safely to school is."

The School Committee has asked West Principal John A. Coyle and Superintendent Kenneth R. Seifert to study the traffic patterns near the school so a more permanent solution to the traffic problem may be decided.

The first taxicabs appeared in 1915.

Herculean Task

Hercules, the famous hero of Greek legend, was assigned to perform 12 great labors for his cousin, Eurystheus, King of Argos. The sixth labor was to clean the stables of King Augeas of Elis in one day. The stables were very dirty, but Hercules used some ingenuity: he turned the nearby rivers through them and completed the task in time.

By the end of the decade, cars will be reshaped by advanced aerodynamic principles.

But you don't have to wait.

From Audi's German engineers: the 5000S sedan.

While the sleek, aerodynamic designs of other car makers are still in early prototype stages, this stunning luxury sedan from Audi's German engineers is in production and available now.

The Most Aerodynamic Luxury Sedan America Has Ever Driven. Refined in European wind tunnels, the Audi 5000S slices through air with an ease and agility that are outstanding for a luxury sedan.

So "air slippery" is the design, that tracking and directional control are maintained even in severe crosswinds. Acceleration to 50 mph is accomplished in 8.0 exhilarating seconds. Handling and cornering are close to what you would expect from exotic sports cars—the result of advanced front-wheel drive technology and a performance-tuned suspension.

Inside the sumptuous interior an almost eerie quiet prevails. Gracefully curved windows mounted flush with the roofline all but eliminate wind noise.

Superior Quality Backed By A Superior Warranty. To insure the quality of the 5000S, we tested it over 3.2 million kilometers in Europe, Africa and North America. So dependable is this automobile, we've covered it with an outstanding 24-month/limited warranty with unlimited mileage. See your dealer for details and a test drive.

Will Set New Schedule For Jenkins Estates Development

By Sue Aucella Deacon

The task of "buttoning up" the Jenkins Estates construction site for the winter was "98 to 99 percent done" as of Tuesday afternoon, the Planning Board learned Tuesday night, and the work has been done according to the board's instructions.

With that work completed, the board voted unanimously (with planner Paul Curley absent) to set a new construction schedule for the 13-lot Jenkins Road cluster subdivision.

According to that schedule, no further work will be done at the site between Saturday, Dec. 1, and July 1 of next year.

During their Nov. 13 meeting, the planners found that the Jenkins Estates developer had violated the conditions of the board's June 5 subdivision approval for the 23-acre development.

They instructed the developer — Abbot Corp., a subsidiary of the Lawrence Savings Bank, in partnership with Arthur "Gus" Gauthier of Andover — to stabilize excavated areas of the site to prevent soil erosion. Those areas had been excavated without the board's approval.

This week, Stephen Colyer of the Community Development and Planning staff said he had inspected the site Tuesday afternoon, and had found that Abbot Corp. had followed the board's instructions.

"The site looks a hundred percent different than it did a week ago," he told the board.

According to Colyer, a binder surface has been installed on the roadway, five excavated lots have been stabilized with mulch, one stockpile of loam has been leveled and stabilized with mulch, and another stockpile has been used up.

This work "locks the site up for the winter," Colyer said. He recommended that after Dec. 1, all work should be suspended at the site until July 1, 1985.

He explained that the next step in the project is to run a water line from Jenkins Estates to the neighboring Olympia Way development — and that will require running the line across wetlands. The Conservation Commission believes it would not be safe to cross the wetlands before July, he said.

Thomas MacLaughlan, Jr., vice president of the mortgage office at Lawrence Savings Bank, said Abbot Corp. "would like a little bit of flexibility" regarding next year's start-up date. He said the developer would probably appear before the conservation commission and the planners in the future to request an earlier date.

The planners agreed that work may begin again at Jenkins Estates on July 1 or whenever the conservation commission deems it appropriate, whichever comes first.

Colyer added that Special Town Counsel Thomas Arnold has suggested a new clause be included as a matter of routine in future planning board subdivision approvals: the clause would state that the developer had read and understood the conditions of the approval.

That might help prevent future problems like Jenkins Estates, he indicated.

On Nov. 13, MacLaughlan and Gauthier said they had purchased Jenkins Estates from Rosnoe Construction Co. of Burlington without realizing there were planning board restrictions on the subdivision.

The development was originally proposed by Rosnoe Construction, and the planners had granted their subdivision approval to Rosnoe last June.

Advice On Holiday Charity

Did you know that $60 billion was given to charitable causes in 1982 and that individuals gave more than 80 percent of that amount? With the approach of the holiday season, Attorney General Francis X. Bellotti urges citizens to be alert for deceptive or fraudulent schemes which divert charitable dollars into private pockets. With the aid of the law and some common sense, you can not only protect yourself but also help the many worthy organizations sustain their valuable services.

"The first rule is to find out about the charity to which you are considering contributing," Bellotti advises. "If it's an oral solicitation, ask questions: Is it a paid solicitation? How much of your dollar actually goes to the charitable program? Exactly how is the charitable program carried out? Request written information, and don't give until you receive satisfactory answers. If you receive a direct mail appeal, take time to read the literature. Find out how your dollar is spent and make an informed decision."

Another way to learn about a charity is to take advantage of the law. In Massachusetts, there is a law which requires most soliciting charities to register and file annual financial reports with the Attorney General's Division of Public Charities. These reports, which are available to the public, disclose the amount and sources of each charity's income and how it spends its money.

Amended

lots would be clustered around one roadway ending in a cul-de-sac, located south of Bellevue Road and west of Stouffer Circle, a new subdivision. The development would include both clustered and conventional one-acre lots, he said, with the acre lots located closest to Bellevue.

Drainage from the new houses will run into the existing pond, the engineer said, and a water line will be looped in from Bellevue and Stouffer Circle. No wetlands will be disturbed, Ferrante said.

Bradshaw said the board would vote on the proposal during their next meeting, scheduled for Dec. 11.

Also on Tuesday night, the planners discussed preliminary plans for Great Heron Place, a two-lot subdivision proposed by Picwell Builders of Tewksbury for a 6.3-acre site off Orchard Street. The parcel includes an existing tarmhouse, garage and shed that would remain on the site, Ferrante said, while two new houses would be built.

The developer would like the board to waive the construction of the subdivision roadway, the engineer said, and allow the construction of just a driveway instead (known as a "paper street" because the new roadway would exist only on paper).

The chairman said Picwell would have to demonstrate a "strong public benefit" before the board would approve a paper street.

If the board denies the request for a waiver, the developer could build a cul-de-sac and three new houses, Ferrante said, by moving the existing house about 50 feet.

Bradshaw said the board would further discuss Great Heron Place during their next meeting.

Advice

There are also private watchdog groups which can provide valuable information on charities, such as the National Information Bureau in New York City and the Council of Better Business Bureaus in Arlington, Virginia. Both organizations have established basic standards to which they feel charities should adhere.

Another rule is to avoid organizations using high-pressure solicitation tactics, usually found in telephone appeals. Professional fundraisers will try to sell you tickers to a show or advertising space in a publication on the plea that the proceeds will help handicapped children, law enforcement personnel or some other cause that will catch a sympathetic ear. What they will not usually tell you is that 75 percent or more of the money may go to the fundraiser with very little left over for the charity itself. Be sure to ask how much of your dollar actually goes to charity. While some charities use telephone drives legitimately, the best advice is not to give if there is any hint of high pressure or you have received unsatisfactory answers to your questions.

Bellotti's office has filed a number of lawsuits regarding fraudulent fundraising against professional solicitors and the groups that hired them. An informed public is essential, however, to combat those who prey on our charitable instincts for personal gain.

While government cannot and should not make the decision for you of whether to give and to whom to give, it can and is working to encourage open and honest disclosure by charities so that you will have the information needed to make intelligent philanthropic decisions.

No one loves the man whom he fears.

SELLING YOUR HOUSE

Lou Patracone

AVERAGE OR MEDIAN?

The average price of a new house is $100,000.
Those are the statistics - and they are misleading. First, an "average" price can be skewed by extreme figures. For instance, if you average the sales of eight $50,000 houses and one $500,000 property, the "average" sale price is $100,000.
But that certainly doesn't reflect the sales accurately.

arrive at a median, one puts all sales figures in a line and discards those at either end. The number in the middle - the middle of the whole price range paid for property - is the median. The median price is considerably lower than the average today, about $80,000.

Statistics usually refer to the price of a new home, but most transactions are resales, and the market price of these is usually lower still.

Do statistics matter? They give an overall view of the housing market, but what really matters is what YOUR house is worth when you sell it.

Your house is worth more when you list with -

Santa Arrives Saturday

Santa Claus will be accorded a traditional Andover welcome Saturday afternoon.

Andover firefighters will host the annual visit of the popular red-suited gent as they have for many years.

Under the direction of George Thompson and Walter Potvin, the parade will step off from the Bartlet Street starting point at 1:30 p.m., proceed over Chestnut St. to Whittier, to Summer, to Elm to Main Street to Punchard Ave. where the parade will disband.

In addition to the Andover High School Band and the always popular Clan MacPherson band, the Lawrence Chieftains Drum and Bugle Corps will be providing musical accompaniment for Santa's entrance.

Also in the line of march will be the Aleppo Temple Mounted Patrol, the Reading Youth Baton group and members of the Andona Society.

Various cartoon characters will be cavorting along the parade route greeting youngsters and preparing them for the ultimate arrival of Santa who will be aboard the fire department aerial platform.

Floats will be entered from the town's public schools, along with local industry, civic and fraternal groups.

Town and state officials have been invited to participate, along with Boy and Girls Scout troops, Cub Scout and Brownie organizations.

This year the parade organizers will be presenting six trophies to the various parade participants. Three will be reserved for the school department entries, with the remaining going to groups from outside the school system.

In case of rain, the parade will be postponed to Sunday at the same 1:30 p.m.
